

CHAPA Fair Housing Month 2021 Round Up

Throughout the month of April, we shared some of our favorite Fair Housing resources. If you missed them, not to worry! We've compiled them all here for you, plus a few extras. Just because Fair Housing Month is over, it doesn't mean you can't commit to learning more about it and working to improve housing access in your community. Feel free to use and share all of these resources and don't hesitate to reach out to our Municipal Engagement Team for assistance.

Movies + TV Shows

Priced Out

The documentary "Priced Out" (2017) follows Nikki Williams, a single mom and Portland resident, who looked around one day to realize she was the only Black resident left on her street.

"Owned: A Tale of Two Americas" (2018) examines the unequal impact of post-war housing policy for Black and White Americans.

Show Me A Hero

HBO's six-part miniseries "Show Me A Hero" depicts the true story of Yonkers, where a federal judge issued a desegregation order mandating that low-income housing be built in the city's middle-class, white neighborhoods.

Seven Days

As President Johnson said in 1968, just 7 days after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., "Few in the nation believe that fair housing would in our time become the unchallenged law of this land. And indeed this bill has had a long and stormy trip." The short film, produced by Nationwide, chronicles the seven days between the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the passage of the Fair Housing Act.
